

Labor Party Indicts NATO Psychologists As Nazi Doctors at Secret Conference

July 5 (IPS) — North American Labor Party organizers startled an international conference of social psychologists at Carleton University in Ottawa July 4 by indicting two participants for crimes against humanity as outlined under the Nuremburg Statutes. The conference was sponsored by the NATO Human Factors Panel and the Canadian Council, a group under the financial control of the Rockefeller and Ford Foundations and chaired by Peter Dwyer, an operative of British Military Intelligence since World War II.

This elite core group of Nazi Doctors had travelled from Britain, France, Germany, the U.S. and areas of Canada to attend this virtually unpublicized closed conference — sole publicity consisted of a small box in the American Psychological Association's APA Monitor.

The purpose of the conference was to thrash out plans for creating the psychological conditions — labor-management co-participation, in-factory brainwashing — needed to implement the fascist economic programs for the working class hatched during the June 19 Ottawa NATO conference [See IPS No. 8].

Organizer Sue Tobin entered the conference and read the Nuremburg Statutes to the 30-odd participants, indicting Nazi Doctors Harry Triandis and conference co-chairman H. Tajfel for their crimes. Triandis, who is an officer in the Lewinite Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues and who works for the Office of Naval Research of the Advanced Research Projects Agency at the U.S. Defense Department, concentrates on research into "subjective culture" or belief structure of his fellow NATO-policed Greeks, to find ways to manipulate them and modify their behavior. Triandis became extremely agitated when indicted, endlessly repeating, "If all Nazis have mothers, are all Nazis bad?"

Other notorious brainwashers at the conference included French autogestion specialist Claude Faucheux and John Lanzetta of Dartmouth, who specialized in modifying the behavior of Air Force Personnel to get them to take part in such crimes against humanity as the weather manipulation and defoliation of South Vietnam.

Faucheux who works out of the Laboratoire de Psychologie Sociale is on the board of consulting editors of the Journal of Applied Behavioral Science. He has participated in experiments on how to use the fears of some members of a group to immobilize the other members so that they do not act in their own self-interest.

Conference Head Promises Transcripts To Labor Party

Labor Party organizers explained the nature of NATO's role in Rockefeller's fascist military takeover and slave-labor plans and showed how this was linked to the planned menticide of entire populations. At that time, the co-organizer of the conference, Lloyd Strickland, sensing the impact the Labor Party was having on some of his fellow mind-killers, pleaded with the organizers to leave the conference, saying that he would send all conference transcripts to the Labor Party's Operation Nuremburg, if they would just go away.

Before departing, Labor Party organizers carefully explained the "should have known" doctrine of the Nuremburg Laws to conference participants, urging them to give all information they had on the conference and NATO menticide plan to the Labor Party or stand accused of the crimes themselves.

Conference participants bought $23.00 worth of the April issue of the Campaigner, theoretical journal of the Labor Committees, which lays out the entire Rockefeller-Tavistock-CIA conspiracy.

The IRA Comes to Canada...Courtesy of the CIA

July 5 (IPS) — A series of bizarre incidents straight from the CIA's manual were sprung on the Canadian working class last week to set the stage for escalating "terrorist" activity to be followed by police and army repression. July 2 the Irish Republican Army provos (IRA) came to Canada. An American was arrested at the Windsor border crossing on charges that he was transporting stolen NATO weapons for the use of the IRA. In coordinated raids a few days later in Toronto, St. Catherines, and the aptly named Tavistock, six Irish Canadians were also arrested for purported ties to the IRA.

In a rather more elaborate variation on this theme, two members of the French Canadian nationalist terror group, the FLQ (Quebec Liberation Front), and their families have just surfaced in Paris. The two FLQers were last in Canada during the 1970 mass strike upsurge in Quebec, when they were granted free passage to Cuba in exchange for the release of a kidnapped official.

In what has now been dubbed a "security slip," the terrorists flew to Paris last week from Prague. Despite the much-touted security operation at Orly, supposedly designed to keep out terrorists, the FLQers passed directly through airport customs unchallenged, although both men carried special temporary Cuban travel passports.

The French daily L'Aurore blew the story all across its front page, supposedly scooping the French security police. French police are currently engaged in a widely publicized but fruitless search for the terrorists, while press reports locate them as having linked up with either Breton or Basque separatists.

Terrorizing Canada

The incident is being used to heat up the political atmosphere in Canada just prior to the national elections by evoking the hatred and defeat associated with the 1970 upsurge and the consequent War Measures Act, while fueling fears of terrorism in the population as a whole.

An ex-Conservative Party premier has accused Trudeau of pandering to the FLQ vote by not demanding that the terrorists be immediately extradited to Canada when apprehended. An embarrassed Trudeau responds that the extradition proceedings would violate the 1970 release agreement which he, as an "honorable man," would never do.

Meanwhile, the FLQ's highly suspect defense lawyer Bernard Mergler lent extra melodrama to the situation when he indicated that the FLQers could perhaps be legally extradited.

Marchetti Has Public Fit of Nerves at NCLC Exposure of CIA

NEW YORK, July 3 (IPS) — In an hour-long broadcast June 30 over WBAI, the CIA "peoples radio" station in New York, Victor Marchetti, "ex"-CIA agent and co-author of The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence, said he "didn't know what was worse, being pursued by the CIA or the NCLC [National Caucus of Labor Committees]." Marchetti was being interviewed by longtime counterinsurgent Nick Eagleson, ex-Weatherman and co-author (with the CIA's Nat Hentoff) of the recently released cover-up of CIA domestic activities, State Secrets.

Marchetti, far from being contacted — much less "pursued" — by the NCLC, has merely been exposed by IPS as part of the McGeorge Bundy/Marcus Raskin "self-destruction of the CIA" scheme (see IPS, No. 6).

Any "pursuing" he's gotten from the CIA has been in the direction of prodding him to get on with his "expose" — a pre-planned part of the strategy. The book is a collection of naive, previously disclosed drivel which, although purportedly in the works since 1972, was obviously pasted together in the last six months. It says nothing about CIA brainwashing or the actual modus operandi of the CIA, as outlined in IPS.

"Ex"-agent Marchetti's hysteria, stage-managed by Eagleson, served further to confirm the accuracy of the Labor Committee's analysis of the Rockefeller cabal's attempt to introduce its fascist military takeover machinery deeper into the infrastructure of the social and political institutions of the U.S., under cover of the "self-destruction" of the CIA.

Pontiac Times Cries "Communist Menace"

July 4 (IPS) — "The City of Pontiac has become a haven for the Communist Party" — or so declared C. Don Davidson, editor of the Pontiac [Michigan] Times, in a June 20 editorial stirring entitled "Comrades!"

Actually, Davidson was referring to the organizing of the National Caucus of Labor Committees throughout Michigan's industrial workforce. The Labor Committee presentation on the international situation at the June 11 City Commission meeting so distressed Davidson that he ran, in the editorial column, an 800-word fulmination against Labor Committee "Kommie Kids," complete with cartoon.

Burbled Davidson: "I cannot imagine a more convincing presentation toward assuring the public that Democracy and Capitalism aren't in as much trouble as we sometimes think....

"The following day after each Commission meeting one can watch the Kommie kids walking the streets of downtown Pontiac selling their newspaper for 25 cents a copy. Twenty-five cents? Those kids are really capitalists and just don't know it!

"As everybody knows, you can pick up a copy of The Times for just 15 cents. Now I ask you, comrades, 'Who is "really for the people"?"

Fortunately for the human race, Pontiac workers are reading New Solidarity and the primitive Mr. Davidson is playing to a sparsely filled house.
