

All 'Cuban Backed' Terrorism Since 1960 Was Under National Security Council Control

June 9 (NSIPS) — Since 1960, all so-called Cuban-backed terrorism in North America and Western Europe has been directed by the U.S. National Security Council (NSC). From the establishment of the Fair Play For Cuba Committee (FPCC) in 1960 to the activity of today's Puerto Rican Socialist Party-July 4th Coalition-People's Bicentennial Commission terrorist network under the control of Marcus Raskin's Institute for Policy Studies, the NSC has conducted, a vast penetration and espionage operation against the Cuban government. This 16-year operation has been essential to the NSC for providing a "Cuban cover" for its own terrorist activity.

In the process, the NSC through its Institute for Policy Studies, has also established effective control of the U.S. zone of the Puerto Rican Socialist Party (PSP), and is at this time attempting to extend that control to the PSP's island operations using such Institute-controlled countergangs as the Weatherman terrorists, the Venceremos Brigade and the Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee as well as NSC operatives in the PSP including Roberta Salper, Ramon Arbona, Florencio Merced and Alfredo Lopez. The NSC's Cuban operation was also crucial in the takeover of many existing left groups in North and South America and Western Europe, and in the creation of the synthetic Maoist countergangs of the American "New Left."

The Labor Committees are able to establish that the National Security Council's vast FPCC-Institute for Policy Studies network is responsible for almost every terrorist action in North America and Western Europe since 1960 — and that this same network will be responsible for planned nuclear terrorist incidents on July 4 if it is not dismantled beforehand.

FPCC.Rocky's Steering Committee

By 1960, the Cuban Revolution represented both a top target of NSC anti-communist planners as well as an opportunity for the NSC to gain a credible cover for its synthetic left gangs. The success of the Cuban Revolution had tremendously impressed left layers internationally, and it was a shoo-in for the NSC to order many of its already in-place agents to visit Cuba and begin loudly touting the "Cuban Model." Much of the European left's top agents made the pilgrimage including French existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre, K.S. Karol, Regis Debray, Rene Dumeont, Andre Gorz, and the British-based Tariq Ali and Robin Blackburn. At the same time, it was necessary for the NSC to ensure that the actual Cuban revolutionary process was sabotaged and isolated.

To answer both these needs, the NSC created the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Founded in 1960, the FPCC' public goal was to prevent Castro from "going communist." According to FPCC executive member Lyle Stuart, "Unless the U.S. gave Fidel an alternative, he would be forced to accept the support of Soviet Bloc countries." The FPCC propagandized that the U.S. should recognize Cuba and see "Castroism" as "nationalist and democratic", and it arranged trips to Cuba to this end. Not coincidentally, the demand for the recognition of Cuba was also being pushed at the time by top NSC operative Marcus Raskin. Later to work for the NSC publicly — and then to "leave" the NSC to set up the Institute for Policy Studies — Raskin was then head of the "Liberal Project," an early NSC covert operation to maintain control of the U.S. Congress which was run out of Rep. Kastenmeir's (D-Wisc) office.

The FPCC's initial executive committee clarifies who bankrolled the operation:

* Waldo Frank — "honorary chairman" of the FPCC activities. During World War II Frank toured Latin America to brief governments on U.S. war policies under the personal direction of Nelson Rockefeller, then coordinator for Inter-American Affairs.

* Lyle Stuart — a former wartime correspondent for the International News Service and scriptwriter for the CIA front Voice of America. Turned to publishing MAD magazine, Women's Wear Daily, pornography and the writings of "peaceniks Sidney Lens and Dave Dellinger. His subsequent publications include the "anarchist Cookbook," a terrorist manual for making bombs, and the "How to Commit Revolution, American Style" by John Rossen and Jeremy Rifkin of the Institute for Policy Studies terrorist Peoples' Bicentennial Commission (PBC).

* John Rossen — former, chairman of the Chicago FPCC and new co-coordinator for the Washington PBC. Long part of the Institute's network, Rossen's activities have ranged from the engineered disruption of the 1968 Democratic Convention to the 1969 Weathermen riot in Chicago.

* Sidney Lens — a long-time State Department socialist, whose real name is Sidney Okun of the Okun-Oakes family of the New York Times. An Institute fellow, Lens was on the editorial boards of "studies on the left," a "left counter-insurgent journal, and of Liberation Magazine, a pacifist journal that David Dellinger also on the FPCC, wrote for Lens. Dellinger will be participating at the PBC demonstration in Washington D.C.

* Victor Rabinowitz — of the Rabinowitz Family Foundation which funds Institute for Policy Studies projects and practically every counterinsurgent left cover operation along with the Stern Family Fund. Rabinowitz was one of the founding members of the FPCC.

Phase Two

During the second half of the 1960's — after the collapse of both the FPCC and the CIA's Bay of Pigs invasion, and as the NSC-Institutes' "New Left" operation was getting into high-gear — the Cuban route became a major method of laundering agents. Utilizing the just formed Venceramos Brigade, several Institute operatives including Saul Landau, Bo Burlingham Weatherman, Maoist Mike Klonsky and Roberta Salper began in 1969 to set up trips to Cuba for "New Left" recruits — many of whom would end up as today's terrorists. The second feature of the operation was to take over the pro-working class apparatus of the PSP and turn it terrorist — an indesensible pre-condition for implicating the Cubans in terrorism.

The career of Roberta Salper ties together both these features. Once she had established her credibility among Latin leftists through several trips to Cuba, Salper immediately moved the PSP's U.S. network. First, she established a relationship with PSPer Florencio Merced — a leading proponent, along with Ramon Arbona, of terrorist activity. In early 1972 Arbona and Merced began the successful takeover of Claridad the organ of the PSP in New York. Arbona became editor in chief, while another key Salper contact Alfredo Lopez, became managing editor. Lopez is currently the chief PSP organizer for the July 4th Coalition demonstration in Philadelphia. Salper took up as General Manager of Claridad. By propagating through Claridad that terrorism is a legitimate political option, Arbona, Salper and Co. began a process of linking up the "Puerto Rican struggle for Independence" with the entire spectrum of Institute Countergangs.

Under an umbrella organization, the Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee, every countergang from the Hard Times-July 4th Coalition to the Communist Party's Angela Davis faction has since joined hands with the PSP's drive for "independence for Puerto Rico." The leaders of the Solidarity Committee are identical with the FPCC: David Dellinger and Arthur Kinoy of the National Lawyers Guild, also a member of the FPCC.

Salper's "inside job" within the PSP has been matched by an "outside job" coordinated for the Institute by Saul Landau, one of the creators of the Venceremos Brigade. From 1969 to now, over 2000 people have gone through the Venceremos Brigade to cut Cuban sugar cane for a several week period. The Brigade acts as a selection process for the recruitment and brainwashing of terrorists. The record speaks for itself: practically every veteran of the Brigade either has gone into the Weathermen or its above ground support group, or, to help Salper in the U.S. zone of the PSP. 1969 Brigaders Alice and Simon Berger, and Jose La Luz now are in the PSP's New England Regional Executive; Jeff Perry is on the New Jersey Regional Executive. Bernadine Dorhn, Gerald Long, Jeff Sokolow and Julie Nichamin are only a few of the notable Weather Underground terrorists who went the Cuban route.

A wave of terrorism has hit Puerto Rico recently as part of the Institute for Policy Studies-NSC's buildup for a terrorist disruption of the "Rambouillet II" economic summit to be held on the Island June 27. The PSP has announced its intention of conducting a demonstration outside the meeting. These incidents are to act as a preliminary for a major terrorist atrocity ordered by the NSC for July 4. This whole network must be dismantled before that time.
