

ELP Executive Declaration

European Labor Party Denounces Uganda Hoax

July 1 — Partly as a result of West German officials's hysterical efforts to ridicule and suppress our documented exposure of terrorism, a plane-load of predominantly French nationals now faces threat of death in Uganda. That judgment is not only our assessment, but is the judgment set forth in a confidential statement of a very high US official involved in directing terrorist operations.

If any of West Germany's leading press had had the honor and courage to publish the truth concerning the Institute for Policy Studies, the present situation of the innocent persons facing death in Uganda would most probably not have developed. (Perhaps the editors of the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung console themselves that the victims are predominantly "merely French citizens.")

If Interior Minister Maihofer had pursued a proper policy — instead of illegally harassing a lawful party — the probability of the Uganda situation's occurring would have been very, very small. If responsible parliamentarians had done their duty, instead of capitulating to police-state-type messages forbidding discussions with the European Labor Party (ELP) the present horror could most probably have been prevented.

It is merely probable — and not absolutely certain — that honesty and competence by the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Interior Minister Maihofer and key parliamentarians would have prevented the Uganda horror. It is not merely probable, but an absolute certainty, that West German official and press complicity in fraudulent ridicule and suppression of ELP documentation is a principal included cause for the continuation of the current wave of terrorism internationally. These formal and de facto policies of West German agencies are the principal contributing factor behind the current wave of terrorism in Europe. If those agencies were to act with even the minimum of competence demanded by the ELP documentation, the terrorist networks would be torn apart very quickly.

The Uganda Crisis: The Facts

It is a fact that metallic weapons cannot be smuggled into an international flight originating from a major European or US airport without complicity by official security agencies.

Hence, as a minimal action, nations which seriously wished to check terrorism would immediately cease to accept flights originating from airports served by security forces responsible for the presence of armed terrorists aboard a flight. This should continue until the actually responsible officials (not some minor scapegoat) had been competently detained and indicted.

It is a fact that the current terrorist affair occurs in the context of an international campaign by a proven criminal association known as the networks of the Institute for Policy Studies to launch international hooliganism and terrorism around the focus of the USA Bicentennial celebrations. It is also a fact that every known major terrorist gang traces its pedigree into the criminal networks associated with the Institute for Policy Studies. It is also a fact that the attempt to involve France, Somalia, and Kenya in this affair was predicted by a high USA official responsible for coordinating terrorism several days prior to the actions along these same lines by the band of terrorists controlling the plane in Uganda.

It is also a fact that the same source viewed this as both dependent upon Maihofer's continuing his current policies and as a measure to strengthen the influence of Maihofer's policies. That official identified Maihofer's policies as of the type essential for the continued effectiveness of the current terrorist projects. Although that is only the stated opinion of an important official, in our independent knowledge and judgment, his view is substantially a correct assessment of the situation: any interior ministry which emulates the manifest policies of Maihofer is creating the optimal climate for the proliferation of terrorism.

What Is known About Terrorism

Although many private and other agencies perform a collateral or reasonably suspected role in deploying terrorist activities, two networks have been conclusively proven principally to be involved in cooperative efforts behind all known major terrorist gangs in the world today. The first is the networks either directly controlled by or closely cooperating with the fascist, self-styled neo-Fabian Institute for Policy Studies. The second is a network of private, semi-official and official agencies coordinated by Interpol and the "International Association of Chiefs of Police" (IACP). With some exceptions, the division of labor between the two networks is that the first supplies the personnel and political cover-stories and cover-operations, while the second provides the weapons, drugs, and technical support.

Although our present evidence is international in scope, we limit our summary of the evidence to the crucial proof of our analysis supplied by investigations in the Western Hemisphere (Canada, the USA, Mexico, Guatemala, Peru).

First, through Federal and other court proceedings in the United States, and through the actions of honest police and other security agencies of the USA, the pattern of complicity between Interpol and the Institute first directly proven for operations in the Reading, Pennsylvania area has aggregated to an overwhelming mass of evidence.

In the Reading case, an official arm of Interpol, the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms unit of William Simon's U.S. Treasury Department, was directly cooperating with agents of the Institute for Policy Studies in operations of illegal drug, weapons, and explosives traffic and in terrorist activities. This network was directing Maoist and self-styled racist (Ku Klux Klan, National Revolutionary Army) criminal activities, including supply of weapons, drugs and explosives to terrorists.

This connection has been shown to extend into Canada (in connection with both drug-running operations and the 1973-1974 "Black September" activities in Canada), and runs weapons and drugs traffic among the USA, Canada, Mexico, and Guatemala (in particular).

The connection between Interpol and the Institute in Mexico, Guatemala, and Peru is naked. The Institute is directly involved in "Brandenburger Division"-type activities in support of right-wing coup preparations in both Mexico and Peru, closely interfaced with right-wing gangs, and with weapons and drug networks run in cooperation with Interpol. Interpol and the Institute are jointly involved in the weapons and drug-running operations conducted between Guatemala and the "cover organization," "The American Indian Movement (AIM)" in the USA.

Although Interpol and the IACP have important connections to official agencies (such as the Federal Criminal Office and the Federal Border Patrol in West Germany), that straightforward overlap to official agencies is only an indispensable aspect of the overall capability. Interpol interfaces a major international computer complex, linking USA military intelligence (e.g., in West Germany), to other official computer networks, and into criminal associations such as the terrorism- and genocide-coordinating organization, the World Watch Institute. The Interpol-IACP overlap with the International Business Machines Corporation is merely a leading, exemplary feature of Interpol-IACP's basic strength in the security operations of major corporations and in international and national private intelligence and security agencies...including private security agencies involved in international airport security operations.

Historically, Interpol and IACP have performed a key role in aiding the escape of refugees from Nuremberg Crimes prosecutions, in creating "death squads," in aiding coups d'etat, and coordinate the majority of the illegal international drug and gun-running traffic — partly with the aid of former Nazi-created networks in Latin America and elsewhere (Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Bolivia, Colombia are exemplary). Through former private consultant to the CIA, Hjalmar Schacht's son-in-law Otto Skorzeny, and others, the traditions of the Abwehr's Brandenburger Division were directly transmitted as part of the basic capabilities of Interpol et al.

The Nazi Angle

We stress that we strongly disagree with the political assessment of the "Nazi revanchism" problem in West Germany as put forth by officials and other leading spokesmen for the German Democratic Republic (DDR). This point is of the highest background relevance to the problem of international terrorism today, and therefore should be clarified in a precise if summary form. The following points of criticism of the arguments of Julius Mades (the DDR author of "Who's Who In The CIA" and other books — Ed.) and others are most relevant.

* Political intelligence analysts from the Comecon nations are generally at fault in a pervasive incompetence of assessment of the controlling internal dynamics of politics in the capitalist sector. This weakness is notable in the developing sector cases, seriously aggravated for the advanced-capitalist sector generally, and bordering upon fantasy in the analysis of the USA.

* This incompetence is conspicuously aggravated by Comecon officials' reluctance to face the truth concerning Atlanticist political-intelligence agencies' top-down control in effect of most leading Communist parties of the capitalist sector. In the effort to protect their otherwise waning illusions concerning the collapse of the Communist movement in the advanced-capitalist sector, they distort all the outstanding political realities of advanced-capitalist sector developments to the effect of providing some self-consoling rationalization concerning the residual viability of key Communist parties.

* This problem is otherwise aggravated by a stubborn adherence to the simplistic and nonsensical doctrine of "state monopoly capitalism." The attempt to force facts concerning the capitalist sector to conform to that worthless, disorienting doctrine is a broad and potentially fatal streak of incompetence in most of the related types of available political intelligence materials from Comecon sources.

The point is illustrated by Julius Mader's "Hitler's Spionage-Generale Sagen Aus." The otherwise gifted Mader has in effect turned the actual political history of 1914-1976 Germany upside-down. The fact that Mader has access to a mass of material concerning Colonel Nikolai and Admiral Canaris is a relevant consideration. In effect, Mader suppresses his knowledge of those most relevant facts in order to construct a doctrine of "West German revanchism" conforming to the foolish doctrine of "state monopoly capitalism."

Mader knows that he should ask himself: "Why did the Anglo-Americans cooperate with the Colonel Nikolai (of the pre-World War I, Rockefeller-linked I.G. Farben intelligence units) to funnel Canaris back into war-time Germany?" "Why did the USA intelligence supervisory agency, the Russell Sage Foundation, contribute in 1918 the special clause by which the Occupying Powers preserved intact the hard-core of the future German military intelligence capability headed by Canaris?"

In short, Mader and others play into the Atlanticist doctrine of "collective guilt" and locate Nazism and similar German phenomena as epiphenomena of the attributed character of certain German circles. Hence, the foolish, demagogic doctrine of "West German revanchism" — neatly conforming to the "state monopoly capitalism" nonsense. Although Mader uses the term, "Anglo-American," and virtually states that Canaris was a special kind of double agent (the fact of the matter), he refuses to face the fact that Hitler was an Anglo-American-created Frankenstein monster.

Clinging to the foolish doctrine of "West German revanchism" and its mother-doctrine, "state monopoly capitalism," Mader refuses to understand any of the essential features of the Nazi period, of World War II, or the terrible problems of a similar portent threatening West Germany again today.

The fact that former officials of the wartime German military intelligence (Abwehr) and the Reich Security Office (RSHA) are or have been key officials in West Germany's parties and intelligence-security establishment is not the core of the problem.. (In fact, the view is downright un-Marxist. People adapt to circumstances, especially institutionalized circumstances. The ordinary official is essentially a whore, who can be as intelligent, honorable, witty, stupid, or downright bestial as his perception of circumstances prescribes.) The essential problem of the former Nazi official is that he was and is easily blackmailed, and thus makes an excellent "V-Mann" candidate for Atlanticist agencies. Furthermore, his past deeds tend to deprive him of the acuteness of conscience or convincing moral argument by which he might oppose doing for his Atlanticist masters what he did for their fathers or the Hitler regime in the past.

The most essential significance of the former Nazi Abwehr and RSHA official and operative is that, at the end of the war he represented three things to the Atlanticist agencies permeating the Occupying Powers: (1) He was an expendable, highly-useful potential victim of blackmail; (2) He represented special skills which those agencies wished to assimilate or simply employ; and (3) He had active and potential networks which could be mobilized to do as they were instructed.

Granted, some among those carry-overs may be really nasty characters today. However, they are only an incidental part of the current problem of fascism and terrorism. The real problem is the new Frankenstein monster built with their former assistance. The real problem is the Heinzelmaennchens, is the two younger generations, the under-fifties and the under-thirty-fives, typified by those who make up the hard-core of the fascist networks of the Institute and Interpol networks today.

The Maders and so forth are so fascinated with the reductionists' misperception of the past that they blind themselves to the realities of the present.

The Present International Fascist Conspiracy

Right now, we face a deadly threat from an international fascist conspiracy. Given the plain facts to prove that, any person who denies this is either simply ignorant or a lying fool. The viable hard-core striking-force for this conspiracy is the network of the Institute for Policy Studies. The name of the conspiracy is the international campaign of hooliganism and terrorism being conducted with a focus against the USA Bicentennial celebrations.

Anyone who imagines that Raskin, Philip Agree, Daniel Cohn-Bendit, Noam Chomsky and so forth represent a "left" force is plainly being foolish.

Facts: Consider the list of organizations who are knowingly collaborating with one another, even through joint meetings of their memberships, in preparations for collaborative hooliganism and terrorism around the USA element of the Institute's Bicentennial crimes.

The Institute as directly represented: the Institute-created Revolutionary Union and other Maoists; the Institute's CounterSpy unit; the Institute's private terrorist organization, the Weather Underground; the Ku Klux Klan; the professedly fascist, Institute-coordinated National Revolutionary Army, which specializes in illegal gun- and drug-running and assassination operations; the Communist Party USA, under top-down control of the Institute; the Cuban Gusanos, who provide, together with the Vietnam

Veterans, and the NRA, most of the goon-squads protecting meetings called chiefly by the Revolutionary Union; the Socialist Workers Party ("Trotskyist"); also under top-down control by the Institute; the Institute's "Liberation News Service"; the Interpol-Institute gun-running cover, the American Indian Movement; and many others.

In West Germany, the organizations linked directly to the Institute, also sharing the Institute's fascist ideology, include the Berliner Extradienst; the Frankfurt Informationsdienst; the Frankfurt "Peace and Conflict Studies" group; the Cohn-Bendit "Spontis"; the Kuerbiskern circle within the West German Communist Party; the Maoist groups including the KBW;KB-Nord; GIM; MSB Spartakus; and many others, especially those being rallied around the Baader-Meinhof "support" movement.

In Italy, the fascist networks linked to the Institute center around Bianni Agnelli and the University of Trento. These include (with West German cooperation): the Red Brigades; Autonomia Operaia; Movimento Studentesco (Milan); Lotta Continua; PDUP; Il Manifesto; Riccardo Lombardi-Alberoni-Craxi of the Italian Socialist Party; the Berlinguer-Amendola gang within the Italian Communist Party; and variously professedly fascist bands.

As in Italy, the "left-cover" fascists directly interface such Interpol-IACP networks as those of Agnelli.

These forces have two principal roles. First, they represent the old tactic of agents provocateurs on a massive scale. Second, they represent the hard-core of a mass-based, rock-counterculture-zero-growth-centered fascist youth movement.

Their deployment is controlled at the top by circles which jointly control both the Institute and Interpol. Nelson and David Rockefeller, and key forces (such as those behind Jimmy Carter) within the Democratic Party of the USA are typical or the controlling level. The masters want fascist police-states and genocidal economic measures right now; they wish a general thermonuclear showdown of the sort only fascist regimes would make possible — right now. These fascist provocateurs of the Institute-Interpol networks are the striking-forces being deployed.

If they succeed, there will be general war before the end of Summer 1977. If they succeed during the months just ahead, general war will have become an irreversible inevitability. Stop the Institute-Interpol fascists now, while you and your family still have lives to save! Get the controllers, the evil criminals behind the stinking little Cohn-bendits and so forth. Make the masters accountable and the master's little Heinzelmaennehen will then behave.
