NSC Employing Nuclear Blackmail With Israeli, South Africa Outlaws

Under orders from the U.S. National Security Council, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has taken the outlaw states of Israel, South Africa and Brazil under France's wing in a push to create a NATO offspring alliance spanning Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Latin America: a "South Atlantic Treaty Organization," or SATO. The Soviet Union has made clear in their official publications that they consider the formation of a SATO as a tripwire to nuclear war.

The French are now giving support for Israel and South Africa to exercise their much-publicized "nuclear option," as Schlesinger Doctrine blackmail against the Arabs and Africa. Indications emerged this week from both Israel and South Africa that both countries are preparing to launch preemptive strikes against neighboring countries.

In Israel, Acting Prime Minister Shimon Peres — a warhawk and advocate of an Israeli nuclear defense who maintains close links with Atlanticist French circles — this week began a purge of Israeli military officials with a view toward preparing Israel for war. In a series of press statements and leaks, Peres and the Israeli military quietly let it be known that they had no intention of softening Israel's stand to allow the long-postponed Geneva Conference to take place, and instead warned that Israel was facing a "pre-October War" situation.

Carter backed the Israeli position in a meeting with Jordan's King Hussein. "Unless we see a strong possibility for substantial achievements before the Geneva Conference is convened, then I think it would be better not to have Geneva at all," said Carter bluntly, indicating a clear though unstated preference for bilateral, Kissinger-style "step-by-step" negotiations. Carter's green light for Israel was met with stony silence by the Arab states, especially Egypt, which has pinned its hopes on Geneva. Since then Israel has bombed a town 15 miles inside Lebanon, which is situated on the so-called "Red Line" for Israeli intervention into Lebanon.

Toward "SATO"

The outlines of the French Atlanticist policy in Africa also became clear this week. A high-powered French military delegation arrived on April 27 in Pretoria, South Africa, for talks on arms sales. Included in the French delegation were specialists in weapons technology, communications, aviation, and atomic power. The purpose of the visit, according to the Quotidien de Paris, was stated by the leader of the French group: "We must not leave Africa in the hands of the Soviets."

The British daily The Guardian reported that part of the French arms supplies would find their way into Rhodesia, now engaged in a low-level war with nationalist guerrillas. A top South African military man, visiting Rhodesian troops this week, told them, "Get used to new weapons."

In addition, a large Brazilian military delegation is set to arrive in France in early May, the Soviet armed forces daily Red Star reported this week, for discussions involving "exclusively military questions."

French efforts follow recent French actions throughout Africa, including a French-run military invasion of Zaire with Moroccan troops and an assortment of mercenaries, and a personal lobbying effort by Giscard in Dakar, Senegal, to construct a formal military pact linking the French West African puppet states of Senegal, Ivory Coast, Gabon, the Central African Republic, and others.

Franco-African Summit Plans Imperialist Policy For Region

The following is excerpted from an April 25, Cuban press service, Prensa Latina, release on an article in the Algerian daily, El Moudjahid.

The Franco-African summit of Dakar made the French government the executor of the plan of destabilization conceived by the U.S. against the African continent, affirmed El Moudjahid today.

The editorial underlined that the mission of French President Valery Giscard D'Estaing at the conference in the Senegal capital had as its motive centralizing imperialist policy for the region.

Giscard also promoted the massive sale of arms in return for African raw materials, especially uranium, copper and oil...

Certainly...Giscard can not speak of security for Africa when he is one of the principal suppliers of arms to the enemies of the African peoples, such as the South African racist regime, concluded the Algerian national daily.
