

Carter Blew Saudi Oil Field

The following statement was released on June 2 by U.S. Labor Party Chairman, Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr.

Information received here today from top Saudi government sources confirms the recent sabotage of a major Arabian oil field was done under direction of the United States government.

This is confirmed by circumstantial evidence as well as direct information received.

First, United States operations in the Persian Gulf and adjoining regions are under direct, overlapping direction of key White House aides Zbigniew Brzezinski and James R. Schlesinger. Although Israeli and French intelligence agencies are reported as directly involved in the execution of the sabotage operation, those agencies are presently operating under White House overall direction — which means Brzezinski. Brzezinski's recent visit to Switzerland, from which aspects of the operation were conducted, becomes most interesting in this light, as does the U.S. ambassador to Switzerland, a proponent of the Frank Nitti school of diplomacy.

Second, our best information is that this operation was not processed through regular U.S. intelligence channels, but through a special team working under direct coordination of Brzezinski, and that the operation was channelled through foreign intelligence agencies and multinational corporate intelligence networks, to minimize risk of leaks to conservative intelligence and political circles in the United States.

Third, on the basis of intensive intelligence briefings this writer earlier received from high-level Arab quarters, it is known that the kind of sabotage conducted could have been accomplished only by persons working from inside Aramco security establishments. An outside sabotage would have required mounting a highly-visible operation from outside Saudi Arabia — which did not occur. From the inside, persons with access to certain key features of the security arrangements could pull off the sabotage almost on a moment's notice — which is what did occur. It is also known that no Arab faction was involved.

The function of Israeli and French intelligence in the caper was to provide a pretense of cover for the real authors. However, Saudi security was not deceived by the charade. Without complicity from known categories of insiders, which has been narrowed down, no French-Israeli caper could have been possible.

In the light of this incident and others of similar character, it is most shocking to discover that there are key circles inside the United States and among European governments who would rather see the United States radioactively incinerated in World War III this year than "commit the offense" of being blamable for provoking a constitutional crisis over Jimmy Carter's impeachment.

In Saudi Arabia, the penalty for the kinds of crimes committed by the Carter Administration's accomplices is public beheading by an official executioner wielding a heavy scimitar. If a few culprits of U.S. citizenship should end their careers in such a fashion, remember that the Saudi executioner may be helping to prevent your children from freezing this coming winter.

Carter Uses Polisario To Upset Algerian Development Stance

Jimmy Carter has developed a keen interest in the Saharan refugees currently encamped in southern Algeria according to a Washington Post feature entitled "War in the Sahara." Behind Carter's ambition to "aid" northern Africa with the introduction of his human rights campaign, is an administration plan to force Algeria off the path of development and into a war with their former ally, Morocco.

The aim of the Carter Administration's multi-edged destabilization is two-fold: first, to "box in" Algeria, former spokesman for Third World debt moratorium and the new world economic order. Secondly, to turn the Mahgreb countries (Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia) into warring factions, thus assuring the collapse of the Soviet-sponsored "Mediterranean zone of peace" proposal scheduled for discussion at the Belgrade conference June 15.

This squeeze-play is being conducted from the inside by Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, and from the outside by the synthetic Polisario Liberation Front.

The Polisario, a scraggly band of desert nomads, was recently heralded in the Atlanticist press for its "courageous" guerilla war against Morocco and Mauritania over the latter's occupation of the contested Spanish Sahara in Northwest Africa. By supporting the Polisario, Algeria is pitted against Morocco.

Bouteflika Paves Way for French

Carter's inside man is "playboy" Foreign Minister Bouteflika, who recently made gains in an ongoing power struggle with President Boumedienne. Boumedienne backed off from his original decision to oust Bouteflika as Foreign Minister during last month's cabinet
