

Brzezinski Coup Attempt Threatens Thermonuclear War

During the month of August the National Security Council under Zbigniew Brzezinski has moved to take operational control of the U.S. government. This fact has been reported by high officials in several executive departments.

The facts that demonstrate this takeover are these: beginning in early August Brzezinski personally intervened to back up James Schlesinger in an attempt to sabotage the proposals by Prime Minister Fukuda that Japan and the U.S. cooperate to develop fusion energy. The same pair forced a review of the agreement that Dresser industries would send oil technology to the Soviet Union. Then while top officials were absent, Schlesinger and Brzezinski formed a voting majority to suspend the deal.

The fact that the deal has now gone through does nothing to change the fact that the NSC has been busy getting control of policy on trade-related matters. Memoranda were sent by the NSC during the last ten days of August to heads of executive departments setting forth new guidelines of control over these departments.

Finally, on Aug. 26, the NSC promulgated as policy the view that the Soviets could be discounted as a threat in the Middle East because they were too pre-occupied with dissension in the Socialist Bloc and by China's threat on its flank.

All of this adds up to the fact that Brzezinski under the pretext of centralizing functions is attempting to gain day-to-day control of the U.S. government. It means that a man obsessed with the exclusive aim to confront the Soviet Union anywhere and everywhere in the world will be in a position to make this aim the official policy of the U.S. government. From the standpoint of the Soviet Union any further aggrandizement of power by the NSC would be tantamount to confirming that the Carter Administration is willing to play the "China Card," that is the attempted encirclement of the Soviet Union. Under these circumstances the Soviet Union would have no choice but to use their war-winning first strike capability long before Brzezinski's encirclement plan was in place.

This is the real political context in which Camp David is taking place. This is the real context in which U.S. trade, technology and food produce are being viewed as weapons. This is the real context in which the U.S. dollar is treated as dispensable because the U.S. is valued only as an enforcer and not a producer in a renewed cold war. Finally this is the real context in which the U.S. tolerates, even allies, with the Nazi Falange and the Begin government because it serves the NSC's strategic aims.

Complicit in Brzezinski's attempted takeover are Walter Mondale, the architect of the war on Congress, James R. Schlesinger and W.M. Blumenthal. It is the policies of these men that have caused the collapse of President Carter's popularity. Fire them and the administration will rebound in the polls.

Everyone should realize that three decisive steps must be taken to avert disaster: 1. the United States should fully support the actions of our European allies and Arab friends to support a new credit facility for world development initiated by the West Germans and French at Bremen and ratified by Western leaders at Bonn. 2. The U.S. should make explicit to Israel that any adventurous course she may undertake in the Lebanon, towards the Syrians, or that threatens the Saudi oil fields will be taken without hope of U.S. assistance. 3. There must be a congressional investigation of the usurpation of powers by the NSC far beyond its original congressional mandate to coordinate, not make, policy.

Europe, Mideast Allies Counter War Drive

The efforts to impel the U.S. onto a confrontation path with the Soviet Union are well known to America's allies in Europe and the Middle East. These forces are already moving to insure that their efforts for peace and economic stability successfully undercut the Brzezinski and allied London factions' drive for World War III.

Despite the blackmail pressures of a contrived "East European spy scandal" mobilized against the leaders of West Germany by London, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's government has stated plainly that West Germany will not fight Britain's war, and intimated strongly that, should the Brzezinski policy prevail in the United States, West Germany will declare neutrality!

Of particular importance is the statement of West German military official General von Bulow, reported in the daily Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, that his government disagrees with NATO Secretary-General Alexander Haig on the "Autumn Reforger 1978" maneuvers. The newspaper reported that von Bulow spoke of a "quarrel" between his country and NATO because "the (West German) government doesn't like these kinds of maneuvers." Among the most massive in NATO history, the Autumn Reforger maneuvers have a specific anti-Soviet political significance at this time. They were privately described by a French defense ministry source as "a strictly political matter, and we will deal with it that way. They are not normal strategic maneuvers."

Even more significant than von Bulow's remarks was the West German government's subsequent unprecedented official confirmation of a fight between West Germany and NATO. On Sept. 7 Chancellor Schmidt's press spokesman Klaus Bölling told reporters that indeed there was a "quarrel," but added that it had been "settled." "There are no more problems between the government and General Haig," he said.

At the same time, Chancellor Schmidt has insisted emphatically during two election addresses during the past week that the core of his political strategy is embodied in the trade and development agreements signed earlier this year with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

From the Mideast came a similar message. Syrian Foreign Minister Kaddam has responded to the floating of the proposal to extend NATO or NATO-type deployments to the Middle East by calmly reporting to other Middle East Arab leaders that through the Soviet nuclear umbrella the Syrians — and other willing Arab states — have the capacity to counter any such strategic policy.

Meanwhile the Shah of Iran, in an interview with the East German Neues Deutschland on the eve of his visit to that country, called for "political cooperation on the international level." And Greek Foreign Minister Ralis is currently in Moscow reviewing the Mideast and Mediterranean situation, planning an exchange of visits by Brezhnev and Greece's Karamanlis, and signing major economic deals for shipping, nuclear power, oil, and aluminum plants.

New Anti-USLP Assassination Threats

LaRouche targeted by Black-Guelph Zionist terror networks

Debra Hanania-Freeman, the U.S. Labor Party-endorsed candidate for U.S. Congress from Baltimore, was threatened at gun point on Sept. 5 in broad daylight. As she attempted to enter her campaign headquarters, Hanania-Freeman was approached by a black youth who put a large revolver to her head and threatened: "You go in there and I'll blow your head off." The youth and a female accomplice took the candidate's pocketbook and fled on foot.

The next night, Stuart Rosenblatt, the U.S. Labor Party City Council candidate in Washington, D.C., was shot at with a BB gun as he entered an apartment building where a number of Labor Party members live. Rosenblatt was returning from a candidates' night where he had given a lengthy presentation on the Order of Malta's control over international terrorism and drug running and the Order's assassination efforts against USLP Chairman Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. and other leading sponsors of the Bonn-Bremen accords.

These latest incidents against members of the U.S. Labor Party are part of an international pattern of assaults, attempted assassination, and slander of prominent Labor Party spokesmen and candidates in the U.S. and Europe. This pattern is striking evidence that the City of London and its international Zionist Lobby-Anti-Defamation League agents are now preparing for a hit against Lyndon LaRouche, who is the author of the International Development Bank approach to a new world monetary system adopted at Bremen in July to replace the British-corrupted International Monetary Fund.

Furthermore, in all important details, it is the same pattern of harassment and assault that emerged immediately prior to an attempted assassination of LaRouche on July 16 in Detroit, Mich. — including the use of black youth to do the Zionist Lobby's dirty work. It has been reported and confirmed by intelligence services of various nations that such a campaign of terror and assassination is, in fact, "live."

The Conspiracy to Murder Then . . .

The previous assassination operation against LaRouche began in the first week of July with the publication and circulation of a slander montage against the U.S. Labor Party under the letterhead of
