

do is to activate the Iranian Student Association organizations and related politically corrupt elements of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Nearly 50,000 Iranian students attend U.S. universities giving a wide political and social base to draw from. Since 1976 and the failure of the "Tar Baby Option," the Anglo-Jesuit kooks have sought to engage Muslim Brotherhood forces for an identical project.

To fully appreciate the manner in which this unfolding scenario is presently being carried out, there must be an identification of two key individuals in policy-making positions within the Carter administration, who are directly accountable for this policy course. National Security Advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski is the indispensable figure in the entire scheme. Without Brzezinski's endorsement of the Khomeini regime's overthrow of the Shah and his subsequent support for Khomeini's policy, none of the present crisis could have occurred. The other key figure is U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti whose unmitigating support for terrorism is evidenced by his release of the four Puerto Rican terrorists who shot up Congress in 1954 and his removal of the Weatherunderground from the FBI investigations list. His recent pronouncements on cracking down on the Iranian students amounts to nothing short of a hoax. In fact, Civiletti's moves at this point will only further the terrorist deployment.

Unless there is a concerted political effort to name the names publicly, to clearly identify the forces responsible for the present crisis, namely Brzezinski and his brethren in the Muslim Brotherhood, then the chances for reversing the situation will slip out of our reach.

Greensboro: job by the Anti-Defamation League

On Nov. 3 five leaders of the Communist Workers Party (CWP) were killed and ten others were wounded by members of the right-wing, terrorist White Alliance in a shoot-out which erupted at a "Death to the Klan" rally that the CWP organized in Greensboro, N.C. An EIR investigation over this past week has uncovered the fact that both the left-wing "victims" in the CWP and their Klan and Nazi "assailants" were merely acting out in "living theater" fashion a scenario for an outbreak of domestic terrorism that was drafted at the Jerusalem Conference on Terrorism last July and directed through such terrorist-coordinating agencies as the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the Institute for Policy Studies.

While investigators have so far failed to locate the "smoking gun" that could be used to bring leaders of the ADL and IPS before a court of justice as accessories to murder, a trail of evidence, leading directly to these agencies' doors, has been developed by looking into the background of individuals known to be associated with persons on both sides of the shoot-out.

The White Alliance, to which the 15 Klansmen and Nazis arrested for alleged complicity in the Greensboro murder all belong, is a Southern-based, right-wing umbrella group that is closely linked to other Klan-Nazi groups known to be controlled by paid agents of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Among these affiliated groups is the Pennsylvania Klavern of the Confederation of Independent Orders of the Invisible Empire, whose Grand Dragon, Ray Doerfler, was in regular contact with those White Alliance members arrested for the Greensboro murders.

Doerfler is currently raising a legal defense fund for the arrested Klansmen. But, in an interview last week with an EIR investigator, Doerfler made statements which indicate that his involvement goes far deeper: "We support our boys ... Look, we taught them how to kill Communists ... It ("racial" violence) has begun. We can't restrain people ... If it was up here, there would be a lot more of them dead. Our boys are better shots."

James Rosenberg

Incredibly, the man whom Doerfler has publicly named as "the brains" behind his Klan outfit, James Rosenberg (a.k.a. "Jimmy Mitchell"), is a self-admitted, paid agent of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and a non-commissioned officer in Israeli military intelligence. Rosenberg, who currently resides in Doerfler's Mooreville, Pa. home, returned to the U.S. recently from a tour of duty in Israel where he worked as a briefing and debriefing officer in a Holocaust Center set up by Rabbi Meir Kahane, the founder of the Jewish Defense League. As EIR documented in a two-part series ("Zionists Tied to 'Nazi' Organizing") last June, Kahane was himself groomed by Air Force Intelligence's Joseph Churba and Maj. Gen. George Keegan, who are both part of the Jesuit-Georgetown networks that heavily represented the U.S. at the Jerusalem Conference on Terrorism where plans for a controlled, terrorist destabilization of the U.S. were drafted.

As the Rosenberg-Doerfler case highlights, there are two sorts of individuals who are members of the right- and left-wing gangs that are used in staged confrontations like that at Greensboro. In most cases these gang members are mere dupes who joined such political cults either through a depraved sense of self or through "Clockwork Orange" behavior modification programs. Nested among these malleable dupes are a handful of conscious agents from groups like the ADL, IPS, or, even, as the case of Rosenberg documents, from foreign intelligence agencies. Playing on the profiled belief structure of whatever group they are attached to, it is relatively easy for them to deploy large numbers of dupes in line with intelligence-operation "scenarios."

Rosenberg's modus operandi in orchestrating earlier "racial" clashes precisely parallels events in Greensboro. In March, 1978, Rosenberg was implicated in a plot to provoke Doerfler's Klan unit into bombing the Trenton, N.J. headquarters of the NAACP. Again, in July, 1978, Rosenberg was named by right-wing sources as the key figure behind a planned clash between Klan and "anti-Klan" forces in Jamesburg, N.J. Rosenberg not only organized Doerfler's Pa. Klavern to take part in this "one man riot," but he operated as a provocateur within the ranks of the Jewish Defense League, the Progressive Labor Party (PLP), and the International Committee Against Racism, a PLP front that he mobilized to confront the right-wingers. Violence on a level with that in Greensboro was only narrowly averted when the Klansmen were detained by law enforcement personnel as they attempted to enter the town.

William Sickles

Another individual with a lengthy record as an agent provocateur and close links to the White Alliance members arrested in Greensboro and to Doerfler is William Sickles, Imperial Wizard of the Adamic Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and also leader of several other right-wing terrorist groups. At the center of Sickles' Klan group is a so-called "Korp of Konvict Killers" composed of trained assassins recruited through an extensive prison network associated with the Aryan Brotherhood.

Sickles' case history dramatically illustrates the interchangeability of Klan and "anti-Klan" forces whom the ADL and IPS deploy as cannon fodder against one another. In 1975 EIR exposed Sickles as a central figure in a gun- and drug-running operation in the Reading-Pottstown area of Pennsylvania that U.S. intelligence sources held responsible for providing explosives to both the Puerto Rican FALN and the KKK members who carried out the Pontiac, Mich. bus bombings. Working closely with Sickles to oversee this operation was a Dr. Stephen Levin, a former colleague of two of the Communist Workers Party leaders (Jim Waller and Dr. Michael Nathans) murdered at Greensboro. All three were former members of a radical doctors collective which ran the Detoxification Center at Lincoln Hospital in New York. Lincoln Detox was exposed in 1974 as the place where the cop-killing Black Liberation Army was created.

Jim Waller

CWP Central Committee member Jim Waller (also known as "Blackbeard") has himself been identified by law enforcement sources in Greensboro as playing a major agent provocateur role in events leading up to the shootout. As the head of a medical team during the FBI confrontation with the American Indian Movement at Wounded Knee, South Dakota and, later, as the ringleader of several wildcat strikes in Southern textile mills, Waller was an expert in the use of confrontation tactics.

In the days preceding the "Death to the Klan" rally, Waller had CWP members brought in from New York to distribute leaflets denouncing the Klan as "swine," "scum," etc. and daring them to appear at the rally. U.S. intelligence sources report that both NBC and the Justice Department are in possession of film which shows the CWPers in a virtual rampage 15 minutes before the shootings, dragging citizens out of cars, and committing similar provocative acts. And, these film records reportedly show that it was CWP members who fired the first shots!

The full story on the Greensboro murders is not yet in—in large measure because of the security blanket that was immediately thrown over the event by Benjamin Civiletti's Justice Department. Nonetheless, the evidence available from the known record of many associated with both sides of the Greensboro shootout indicate that it did not result from a spontaneous eruption of "racial" violence, but from the deliberate provocations of agents of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and similar agencies.
