

Creative Commons/Matthew W. Hutchins, Harvard Law Record

The behavioral economists, including longtime Obama advisor Cass Sunstein (above), have formed a tight clique around the President; traditional economists have now been cast aside in favor of the new paradigm.

in 400 deaths; the other has a two-thirds chance of 600 deaths and a one-third chance of no deaths. Which would you choose?"

The real point here lies not in analyzing the answer you select, but in the dehumanizing effect of submitting to such questions in the first place. This is a classic "Reesian choice," named after the late Tavistock brain-washer John Rawlings Rees. The participants are not being graded, they are being attacked.

Longtime Obama friend Cass Sunstein, the co-author of Nudge and the man tapped to become the Administration's regulatory czar, is an animal-rights cultist as well, who advocates human rights for animals. That's really just the flip side of believing that humans are animals—animals who should be enslaved because they are irrational and therefore must be controlled. This is the bestiality and degeneracy of the British Empire, being openly displayed in Nero Obama's government.

In the following reports, we pull back the curtain—or lift the rock, if you prefer—on these creatures, to alert you to who they are and who controls them. We do so not merely to provide information, but to identify a grave threat to our nation's security. This nest of British-trained vipers must be cleaned out, if we are to reclaim our nation.

—johnhoeft@larouchepub.com

---

Lyndon LaRouche

---

We've Got a Problem: Obama's Nero Complex

April 7—U.S. President Barack Obama has a Nero Complex, which was proven beyond a doubt in his performance at the recent G20 summit in London, and continues to be demonstrated in his ongoing trip to Europe.

"That's what we're up against, and we're going to lose the country unless this thing is brought under control," Lyndon LaRouche said today. "We have a President who was just inaugurated recently, with a Nero Complex, in the middle of a crisis, doing all the wrong things suddenly. We've got a problem!

"And you have to think about the Emperor Nero here, if you want to understand what this is all about. Which is what he has made himself appear to be, by this summit in London. He betrayed the United States, and he betrayed many people who had confidence in him as being an honest man. This whole operation was dishonest; he was engaged in a deception," LaRouche said.

LaRouche referred to the way Obama summarily banished Paul Volcker from his circle of economic advisors when he didn't like what Volcker was saying. "What was experienced by Volcker is simply an expression of the Nero problem. You see the way he's stripping off people that he's adopted as cabinet circles, and similar kinds of circles. One by one, as with Nero, they're going. One by one. The guy has a rotten streak in him. He betrayed the U.S. He did! He betrayed the United States."

On Obama's April 5 speech in Prague, where he embraced the Bush policy of placing missile defense systems in Europe, contrary to his own earlier statements, LaRouche said: "He's switching everything! Emperor Nero! Watch who's the next Seneca."

Seneca, who had been a critical advisor to Nero, was ordered by Nero to kill himself. He followed tradition by severing several veins in order to bleed to death, and his wife Pompeia Paulina attempted to share his fate.

"Nero is the fellow who told the guy who was his sponsor to go over and commit suicide by cutting his veins and dying in his bathtub," LaRouche noted. "And the issue is, the way that the Obama Administration is going now, that threatens to be the destiny of anyone who is a member of the Obama Administration.

“The way Obama is acting strongly suggests that he is a Narcissus case,” LaRouche elaborated, “which has been shown in this connection with his changes in behavior in his visit to London and Europe. This has shown that the man has a chronic Narcissus complex like that of the Emperor Nero.”

“He is fickle, fickle, fickle! Don’t put any credence in interpreting what he says. We’ve already had an example of that. We saw what he pretended to be, up to a certain point. He went to London, and then he showed us what he really is. That’s already established. That’s not something that’s debatable. That is a fact! And I know people get frightened when I say things like that, but you have to face reality. That’s what our problem is.

“The guy got in and he fooled us. The possibility of that was clear,” LaRouche explained. “We dealt with it, but we didn’t have it. We didn’t have concrete evidence, and that’s because people were covering this thing up. So now what’s happened is he’s now in power, and what he really is, has been exposed. People were looking for a political commitment as the issue—that he had a different political commitment. And what you find out is he had no political commitment; he had an ego commitment. It’s a Narcissus Complex.”

LaRouche also took note of the growing opposition to Obama’s top economic advisor Larry Summers: “This thing is not a Summers scandal,” LaRouche explained. “What you are really talking about with this case is a much more interesting story. Many of us realize that Obama is really a Nero type; then they themselves got on the wrong end of his anger, and are not taking it lightly. Some of these people also have a historic, patriotic motive, and recognize that this guy is betraying the country. So now he’s going to find himself, for those and related reasons, in all kinds of trouble. And although they will not go after him directly, they will peel off his apparatus,” beginning with Summers, who is among the most vulnerable.

“It wasn’t Summers that was caught. Summers was protected by the President. And now the President, being who he is, will abandon Summers. Anybody who can become inconvenient to Nero gets abandoned.”

LaRouche concluded: “The Emperor Nero is not a popular institution inside the U.S. And we have to think in terms of the Emperor Nero, otherwise you don’t understand Obama.”

London’s Black-Ops Project

by Anton Chaitkin

April 10—Time magazine misnamed as the “Consortium of Behavioral Scientists” what it described as “a secret advisory group of 29 of the nation’s leading behaviorists,” directing President Barack Obama’s catastrophic policy, of pouring out trillions of dollars to prop up the London-centered offshore finance swindle.

The group of economists is actually called the Behavioral Economics Roundtable, based at the Russell Sage Foundation in Washington D.C. The “behavioral economics” project has been tightly organized and run jointly since 1986 by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and the Russell Sage Foundation.

Through these and related institutions, the project’s sponsors are descendants of the the same clique of London-directed strategists who created the Hitler and Mussolini regimes, and ran the propaganda war against President Franklin Roosevelt.

After World War II, these British Empire strategists revived fascist economics and psychological manipulation methods to attack and reverse Roosevelt’s legacy.

The Empire’s Irrational Subjects

Israeli kook psychologist Daniel Kahneman, called the founder of behavioral economics, was an apostle of brainwashing expert Kurt Lewin. Kahneman has described his own Israeli army experiments, based on the psychological warfare methods of Lewin’s bosses in London’s Tavistock Institute: the study of soldiers’ vulnerable minds in “leaderless groups.”

Kahneman met Alfred P. Sloan Foundation vice president/psychologist Eric Wanner in 1982. Wanner, previously employed by Britain’s Sussex University, home of the Tavistock Institute, took Kahneman under his wing. Wanner soon afterwards became chief executive of the Russell Sage Foundation and, in 1986, he instituted the Behavioral Economics Project, run jointly by the Sloan and Sage foundations.

Both foundations, as will be reported below, were central to London’s post-World War II fascist revival.

This began before the war was even won. In 1944,