

Editorial

The Truth of the Matter

The world is now moving past the onset of the greatest mudslide in the entirety of the world history. Today, it is the trans-Atlantic region which will begin the sudden breakdown-crisis. It will begin like the fabled “super-Krakatoa” explosion of Thera, with a rumble, and then an explosion, in a holocaust of mixed hyperinflationary booming and collapse, leaving little that is salvageable as recognizably the civilized trans-Atlantic societies which had seemed securely dominant only a short time ago.

Then, soon after that, inevitably, Eurasia will go; then, China and neighboring territories, and India. South America and Africa are soon gone into the same global fray.

We can stop it now! If we are willing, and if President Obama is put out of office promptly. Otherwise, were we to presume that Obama would remain President through these times, then the civilization of this planet is already doomed to a prolonged dark age of all humanity.

The scheme which has guided the United States itself into its presently, virtually suicidal folly, is premised on a richly deluded persuasion: its foolish belief in a “money system.” This belief replaced the idea of real economic value, as expressed as the increase of the productive potential of society’s labor force—the idea which last dominated our nation under the Presidency of Franklin Roosevelt.

In opposition to sanity, what has occurred since the close of World War II, has been a fascist-like process known as the doctrine of “creative destruction.” “Creative destruction” was behind Wall Street’s launching of the U.S.A.’s ruinous decade of an Indo-China War; was the characteristic policy of the Nixon Administration; and was unleashed with monstrous zeal by David Rock-eller’s puppet, President Jimmy Carter. Under President Reagan, George Shultz, once ensconced, went whole hog with that destructive policy.

To sum up the most relevant point to be made here, in this context, there are three essential requirements for saving the United States from immediate destruction at this time: 1) Throw President Obama out of office under the relevant terms of the 25th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. 2) Immediately re-enact Glass-Steagall, as that law had been defined under President Roosevelt. 3) Use Federal credit, now freed of the anti-constitutional burden of “bailout,” as the means for funding two leading, immediate measures of economic recovery: (a) to rescue the cities and states of the U.S.A. from their immediate, and worsening state of functional collapse; (b) launch NAWAPA with the accompanying intention of employing about 3-4 millions relevant persons in high-technology employment in both NAWAPA development, and the creation of the national industrial and related efforts needed to create the infrastructural support of NAWAPA itself.

Those measures, combined with necessarily sweeping measures to reverse the insanities of the Obama Administration, will be sufficient to prompt a massive and rapid process of general economic recovery and increased national productivity, both per capita and per square kilometer of territory.

Without these reforms, the U.S.A. is virtually dead already. Already, the social integument which holds the citizens of the U.S.A. together as an integrated society, is now virtually destroyed. We are presently on the verge of a runaway crisis in not only North America, but within the trans-Atlantic community as a whole. The remainder of the world is no more than a few steps behind.