The Oasis Plan

The LaRouche Solution for Peace Through Development Between Israel and Palestine, and All of Southwest Asia

This conference is an absolutely crucial step, right at this moment, toward peace through development—not just in the region, but worldwide.

The terrible war and starvation unleashed in Palestine, already designated a “plausible genocide” by bodies of the United Nations, including the International Court of Justice, and also the killing of those who attempt to bring aid to Palestinians, has created worldwide revulsion, which is unsettling even the war presidents and war parties of NATO. But their war drive is a bigger one, against the growing BRICS group of nations, which represent the potential of a new and different paradigm in international relations, one of cooperation among sovereign, developing countries for mutual economic, technological, and scientific development.

This new paradigm must “strike back” against the war powers by a breakthrough for the Oasis Plan for peace through development. It expresses the potential of the BRICS group of nations, and the Belt and Road Initiative, and it is exemplary of the new strategic and economic development architecture needed by every nation in the world. It is desperately needed for all of Southwest Asia right now.
