Time to Get Out of the British Royal Doll House, and Face the Music (of the Spheres)

by Diane Sare

Sept. 19—While U.S. President Donald Trump was being submerged in goofy royal pomp and circumstance at large dinners attended by people who believe themselves to be superior to the rest of the human race, the majority of the world was responding to reality and acting accordingly.

As German Poet of Freedom Friedrich Schiller said, “There is a limit to a tyrant’s power.” That limit has now been reached, and the burning question is whether anyone near the President will figure that out and inform him that the Global Majority is no longer playing by what the senile President Joe Biden called the “rules-based order”?

A few recent examples:

The Israeli strikes on Qatar aimed to kill the Hamas negotiators not only failed to do so, but also succeeded in uniting Sunni, Shia, Arab, Persian, and Asian nations. Pakistan will now include Saudi Arabia under its nuclear umbrella, and invited Iran to observe the discussion to assure Iran that this is in no way directed against them. Egypt applauded the move and may soon join the agreement. Türkiye is also part of this new dynamic.

Prior to this, recall that the threatened U.S. tariffs against India for purchasing Russian oil only drove India into a closer partnership with Russia and even China.

Despite Iran’s Sept. 9 agreement, signed in Egypt, to allow the IAEA to resume inspections of its nuclear facilities, the UN Security Council voted to “snap back” draconian sanctions on that country. China and Russia have publicly stated that they consider this action illegal and will not abide by it. Former CIA analyst Larry Johnson, speaking on the Sept. 19 International Peace Coalition call, noted that if Israeli Prime Minister Bibi Netanyahu persuades U.S. President Donald Trump to support another strike on Iran (as many analysts believe he will attempt to do in his upcoming visit), it is unlikely that China and Russia will stand down in the same way they did earlier.

The assassination of Turning Point USA founder Charlie Kirk is another inflection point inside the United States, particularly among the younger MAGA base, who are angry that “America First” seems to actually mean “Israel First,” and believe that Israel is committing genocide in Gaza. Max Blumenthal (not MAGA) and others have noted that Kirk expressed his unhappiness with the pressure being brought to bear on him by his former Zionist funders, including Bill Ackman, who had invited him to his Long Island Hamptons estate in early August, along with many other social media influencers to get the pro-Israel talking points under control. Reportedly Kirk refused the offered funding, and refused an invitation from Netanyahu to visit Israel.

Netanyahu, for his part, is protesting loudly on multiple platforms that Charlie Kirk was devoted to Israel, and was one of his best friends, and had been planning to visit, and that anyone who claimed otherwise was spreading “outrageous lies!”

That being reported, we must not fall into the simplistic trap of blaming Netanyahu (or Zelensky) for the murder of Charlie Kirk. Both of these theatrical characters are controlled assets of a dying imperial order, based in the City of London and Wall Street and their lackeys in the intelligence community and news media. They are seeking to maintain power through force, bribery, and terror, which is not working, leading them to employ more desperate measures which will backfire. However, breaking the grip of their lying narrative is not enough.

We must become as dangerous as former American presidential candidate Lyndon LaRouche, who many will recall was labeled an “anti-Semite” decades ago, by such unsavory groups as the ADL and by pro-drug scribbler Dennis King.

LaRouche was attacked as “anti-Semitic,” not because he identified the crimes of Israel, but because he was organizing for a new, just international economic order, and was recruiting leaders from around the world to join him. The pro-British imperial order enforcers in London and Wall Street wanted to smear LaRouche in order to prevent others from working with him, and to prevent him from being able to recruit young people across the United States, as he did in the late 1960s, and later during his 2000 and 2004 campaigns for the U.S. Presidency. They knew that the economic policies LaRouche was promoting would work, and would allow billions of people from many nations around the world to attain true sovereignty and independence, as John Quincy Adams and every true American patriot has desired.

With the recent meetings in Tianjin, Beijing, Vladivostok, the BRICS virtual meeting hosted by Brazil, and the latest meeting in Doha, this new order is becoming unstoppable. No nation will ever voluntarily return to slavery, and that is a true principle of the universe. Humanity yearns to be free, in the sense that American President Franklin Delano Roosevelt expressed in his famous “Four Freedoms”: freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear. It is time for the American people to reject the British Royal obscenity and return to the mission of our founders!

This is the natural polyphonic direction of humanity, and would be the obvious way to celebrate the 250th anniversary of our Declaration of Independence. Chinese President Xi Jinping’s call with President Donald Trump on Sept. 19 is a perfect antidote to a Halloween-like visit to Windsor Castle, but it isn’t enough. The American people should engage in intense study of the writings of Lyndon LaRouche, and prepare for our nation to participate in the new paradigm of mankind.
