

Zepp-LaRouche Speaks Out

This leaflet by by Helga Zepp-LaRouche, chairwoman of the Civil Rights Movement Solidarity (Büso), was issued in Germany on May 26, under the title “A Coup d’État in the U.S.A. Was Averted! The BüSo Enters Full Force Into the Federal Election Campaign.”

With Chancellor Schröder’s decision to go for early elections this Fall, and his distancing himself from a further coalition with the Green Party, new opportunities have been opened for Germany. All the more so as a threatened coup against the U.S. Constitution was averted through a bipartisan agreement among 14 Senators, creating a completely new situation both in the U.S. and internationally.

While attention in Germany was focussed on the election results in North Rhine-Westphalia and Schröder’s surprising announcement of early elections in September, the truly crucial battle was taking place in the U.S. Senate. In the context of the pending confirmation of Federal judges, the Cheney/Bush Administration had attempted to stage nothing less than a coup d'état against the U.S. Constitution. Lyndon LaRouche countered this with a declaration titled "Save our U.S. Constitution Now," in which he called for resistance all over the country, especially in Washington, and pointed to the parallel between the intended power grab by the White House now, and the Notverordnung [emergency decree] enacted in Germany on Feb. 28, 1933. The fact that a bipartisan coalition of seven Democratic and seven Republican Senators, led by Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W.V.) and Sen. John Warner (R-Va.), repelled this attack and "saved the republic" as Senator Byrd put it, amounts to a political earthquake.

With that development, the basis has been laid to face the next two dramatic dangers which are hanging over the world as a Damocles sword: 1) the preventive nuclear strikes against Iran and North Korea which the neo-cons intend to launch, and 2) the imminent collapse of a series of hedge funds, and with that, the collapse of the global financial system. To counter both dangers, the same type of bipartisan cooperation between Democrats and traditional forces in the Republican Party is needed, as well as a common return to the tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his New Deal.

With this backdrop, the BüSo will immediately enter full force into the Federal election campaign, and insist, in particular, on the necessity of a new financial system, a new Bretton Woods in the tradition of FDR. The uncontrolled collapse of hedge funds, which will constitute a virtual daily threat over the next few weeks, presents an existential danger for the entire physical economy worldwide, and for the lives of millions of people along with it. Therefore, as a first step, regulation of hedge funds must be put on the agenda immediately, despite the freakouts of those neo-cons who favor the warlike actions of predatory capitalism, not the least against Germany's productive Mittelstand [small- and medium-sized industry]. If, as mooted, the German Chancellor announces measures against the hedge funds during the SPD meeting scheduled for June 13, he must be fully supported. And if consenting voices are heard from the non-neo-conservative wings of the CDU/CSU, so much the better for Germany.

The bipartisan cooperation of U.S. Democratic and Republican Senators creates the preconditions for new types of coalitions; not formal coalitions of parties, but of forces who, in this period of dire threat, put the common good and the interest of Germany above their petty self interests. However, the world still stands at the edge of new Iraq-style wars—but this time with the deployment of nuclear weapons—and has to face the certainty of the onrushing global financial crash. Therefore, the highest priority of German foreign policy must be war avoidance, and the avoidance of conflicts which could indirectly lead to war. Second, the question of a just new world economic order has never been more urgent.

In the U.S. Congress, especially in the Senate, openness to the economic programs proposed by my husband Lyndon LaRouche, has grown tremendously. Among these proposals, there is his program for saving the bankrupt American automobile industry by converting it into a motor for rebuilding infrastructure in the U.S., as well as the return to the policy of FDR, that is, a new Bretton Woods and the New Deal. Such a fundamental policy shift would also offer a way out of the crisis for Europe and Germany.

The BüSo and the LaRouche Youth Movement will do everything possible in this election campaign to make sure the citizens understand this solution to the crisis, and can vote for it. The latest news from the United States is, for a change, very good. And despite all skeptics and cultural pessimists: the BüSo does have the remedy! And what's more—we are winning!

1. For taxation of hedge funds, as a first step toward ensuring transparency in the gigantic derivative speculation trading.

2. For the convoking of an emergency conference to create a new Bretton Woods system.

3. For the development of the Eurasian Land-Bridge as a vision of peace for the 21st Century.

4. For a state investment program of at least 200 billion additional euros per year in Germany, in order to create 10 million new productive jobs as soon as possible (to replace the Agenda 2010 and Hartz IV reforms).

5. For a new Treaty of Westphalia for the next 50 years, which guarantees to all nations on this Earth the peaceful use and development of all raw materials.

6. For a renaissance of scientific and technological progress, and of the inherently safe technology of the high-temperature nuclear reactor.

7. For a renaissance of classical education. The time has come for a Schillerzeit!
